Mr. George Riegel
RDI Construction
P O Box 705
South Point, OH 45680

Dear George:

This letter will confirm our phone conversation where you requested we provide a loss history of your general liability coverage and the time frame of coverage. A careful search of our records indicates we first wrote commercial general liability coverage for RDI on November 1, 1984 and added coverage for the railroad fuel additive product on December 17, 1986. In the period of time between those dates and today there has never been a claim reported under the commercial general liability policy, including against products liability which is a part of this protection. Our carriers during this period have performed numerous loss control inspections and have never made any recommendations regarding the manufacturing of your product. They are happy to provide the necessary coverage required for you to make and sell your product to your vendors.

If additional information is required, please let me know.
